Greetings from Abby Hall and Amber Matthews who are cruising in style.

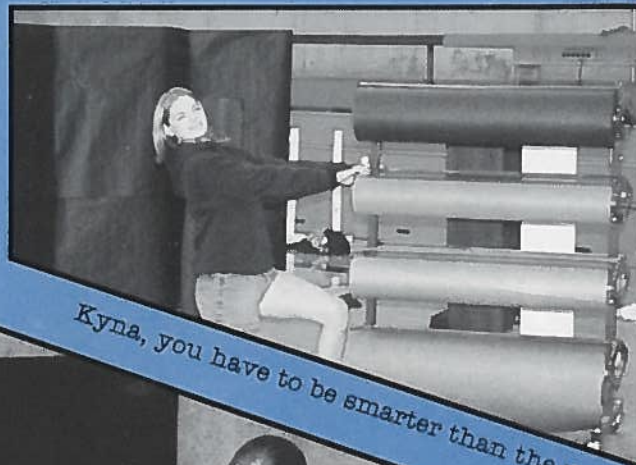

Welcome to the Wishkah Valley Theater. Please sit back and enjoy yourself in this loving and family-like community. Forget all your worries, make a few friends, and relax.

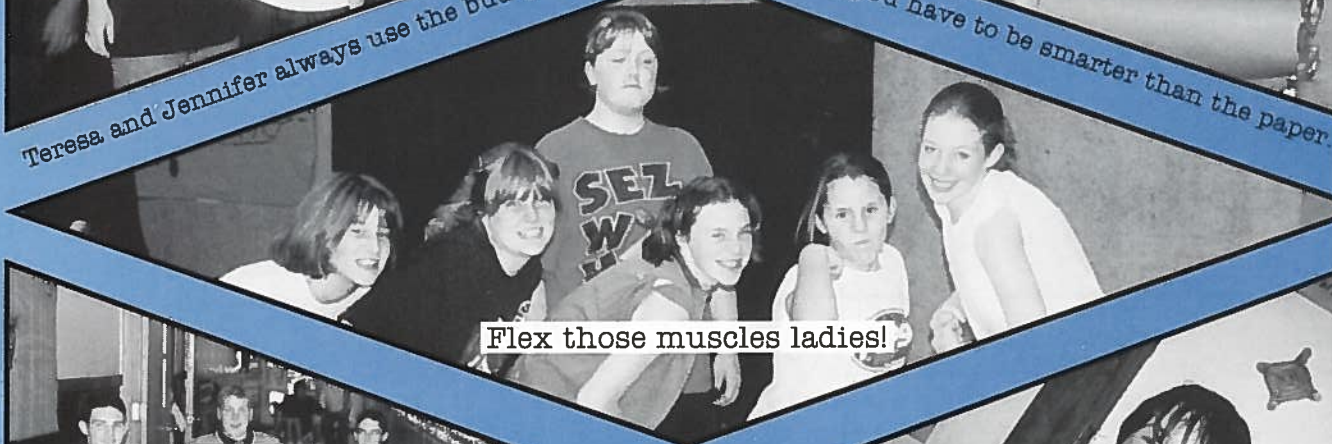

The 'W' Files

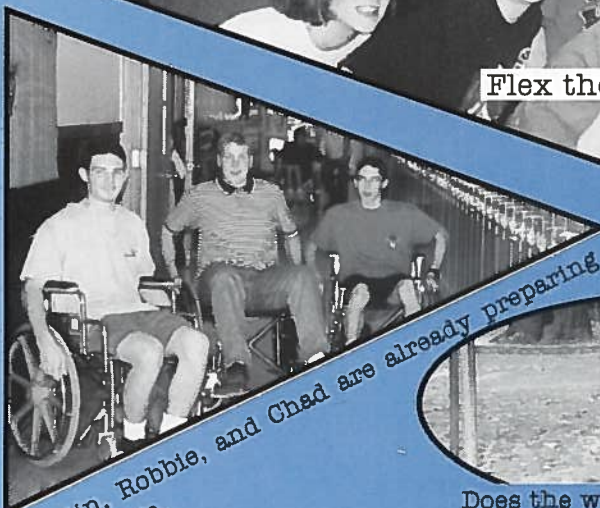

Teresa and Jennifer always use the buddy system.

Kyna, you have to be smarter than the paper.

Flex those muscles ladies!

Justin, Robbie, and Chad are already preparing for old age.

Does the word "inseperable" mean anything to these two.

Sam Crass shows us her pearly whites.

"Holal Habla español?" If you can't, you better talk to Kyle, Andrea, or Nigel they will help you.

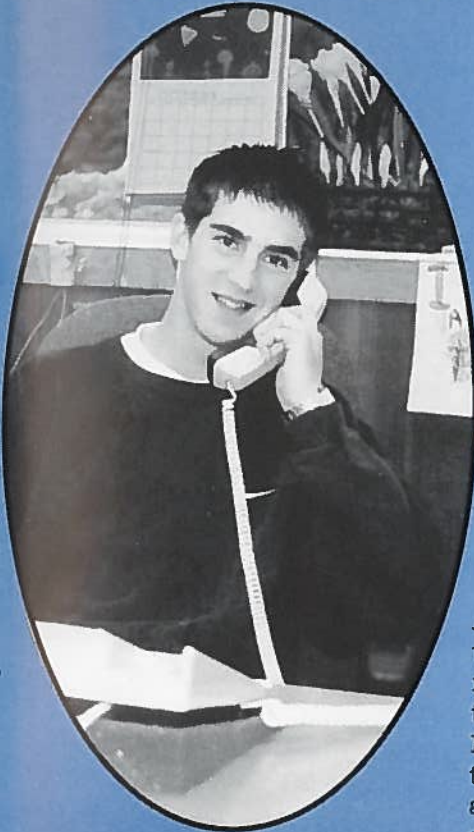

Debbie gives us one thumb up.

Talk about gossip corner.

Above: Using an umbrella is obviously not an option for these three.
Left: Chad, don't give us that coy smile, we know about the prank phone calls.

Duane decides to take a short nap after a hard quiz.

Victor finally found the courage to ask Panya to the dance.

Q: How is student life at Wishkah different than at any other school?

She said:

"It's smaller so you know everybody. And you have more fun with your friends."

- Shari Helberg, 7th grade

He said:

"You learn more here because teachers have more time to work individually with students."

- Victor Dalgord, senior

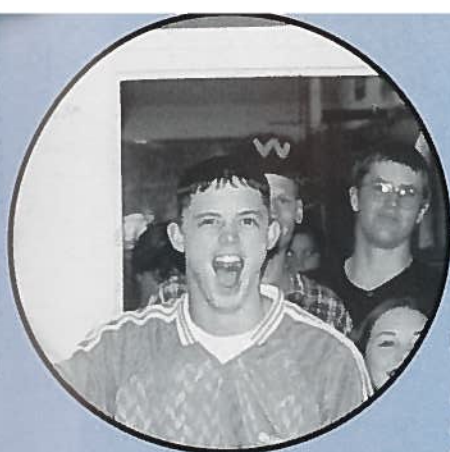

Right: Lesley and Tommy get kissably close, while trying to win a class competition. Much to his disappointment, Lesley kept backing away.

Above: Great minds think alike, and as you can see here, there is not a lot of thinking going on.

Below: Wishkah spirit has brought these people together, or was it just Dustin's charm?

Right: Some people have to always be perfect and get all their work done.

Below: Peek-a-boo!

"I feel that Wishkah academically cares more about the education of the individual student than in other schools."

Stephanie Briggs, freshman

"The best part of my day is the end!!!"

Robby Libby, senior

"I think we should get MORE good looking women!!!"

Chad Ridgway, junior

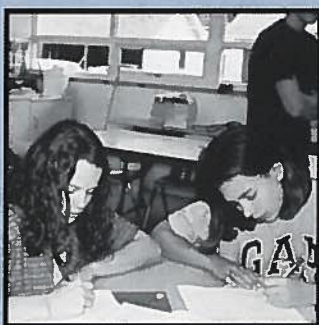

"I like the time in between classes to talk with my friends!!!"

Tracie Gallington, junior

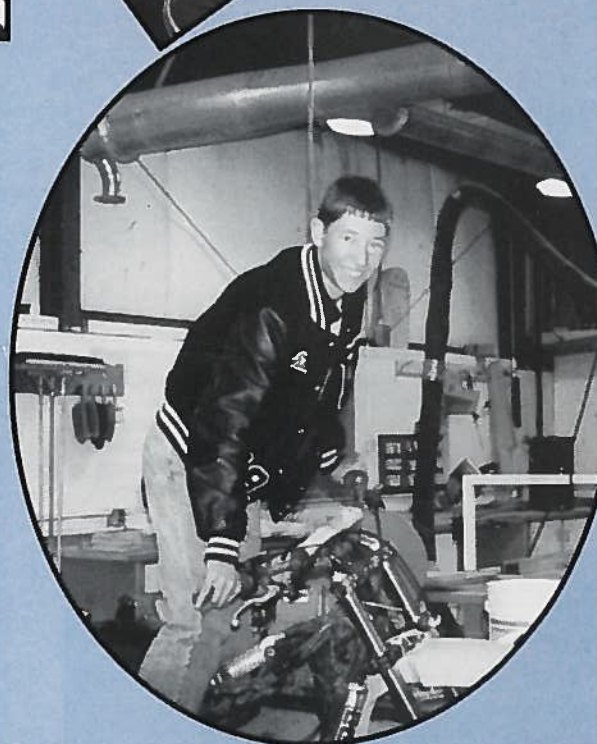

"The best part of my day is, Lunch! But, recess is very nice too!!!"

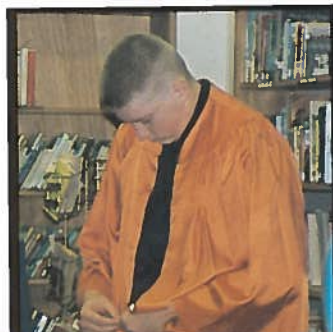

John Helberg, 6th grade

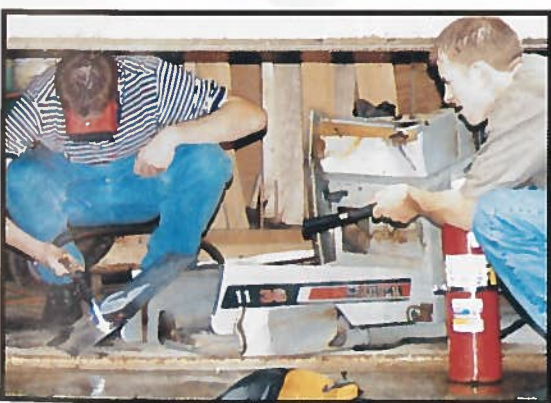

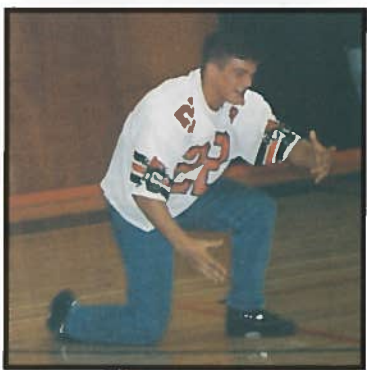

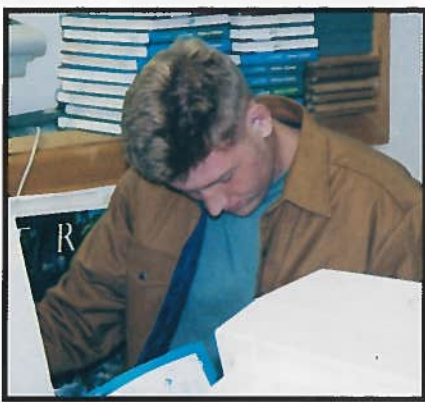

Doing the Baja, Steven shows the shop class how to really kick it broadside.

In the Wishkah Valley School, teachers are the boss. Like in the old West, there are showdowns between teachers and students. Often students will get the idea that they can do as they please, even if it's against the rules. It is the teacher's place to discipline students and keep things in order, just like it was the sheriff's place to keep criminals from destroying a peaceful town.

The teachers of Wishkah Valley School provide a family-like atmosphere. Our small community is made warm by their ability to guide us. They provide friendship, as well as an education. They influence the way we will live in society for the rest of our lives. Their place in our hearts will last forever, and their words will be repeated to our children. Their willingness to help us will instill the same qualities within us.

Loggers In Black

Needing a line to help move the ball, the Loggers had to put in a lot of work, if they wanted to go anywhere this year. In the preseason it all but seemed over for the Loggers. Beating Quinault in a home opener seemed to tell the league, "We won't quit without a fight." And they didn't. What seemed to stun more people was the fact that Wishkah (even after losing a big line last year,) still had what it took to get to the state playoffs.

Looking toward the end zone, a logger puts the pedal to the metal and out runs everyone on the field.

"Get back here, and pay attention," booms Coach Ashler, as Brian and Jason start walking away.

"Oh, believe me, I will get you!" snarls Ryan, as he gets ready to pounce on this poor, little, helpless quarterback.

After a hard fought game, the Loggers talk about what they need to work on and what they did to win today's game.

"Why... why are you doing this to me?" asks Jason, as he gets tackled from behind.

Learning how to do a cheer, the football team can't help but look stupid.

"Don't leave, please don't leave me, you really need me. I can help, I'll try not to fall down again," calls Brian, as he runs after the football bus.

"I wonder how many guys are about ready to hit me from the back," Matt thought as he ran for a touchdown.

"I told you! I don't want to dance," yells Brian.

"Are we really winning or am I dreaming?" asks Head Coach Rob Ashler.

Dog pile, Wishkah style. They set the ball carrier on his back with only one hit by the rumbling mass of humanity.

The junior high girls get ready to rumble!!!

A group of Wishkah defenders take it to the floor trying to get the ball.

Alana Reed dribbles the ball up court to set up a play for the Loggerettes.

The tough Wishkah defense attempts to steal the ball from South Bend.

Coach Hay tells his team to "keep up the good work!"

Wishkah and Taholah slap hands after a good game.

Tim Conway taking it to the hole with the finger roll!

Jacob Carleson goes after a rebound against Quinalt.

Alan Reynvaan gets a pass from a teammate in hopes of scoring two.

Necessary Roughness

Jennifer, takes the time and shows all the right moves.

Good Job Ladies!!!

Carissa, is just doing her thing. She takes this opportunity to score two for Wishkah.

So what was the deal this season? Well, if you had asked any fan or player that exact question, this is probably the reponse you would have gotten. "We had no idea how this season was going to fall into play."

This was a much more fulfilled season for everyone, just due to the fact that nothing was certain this year. In the past, it was always feed the ball to the post or the big gal inside and let her score. Yeah, it was easy back then. But now the times have changed, and the big gal is not there anymore.

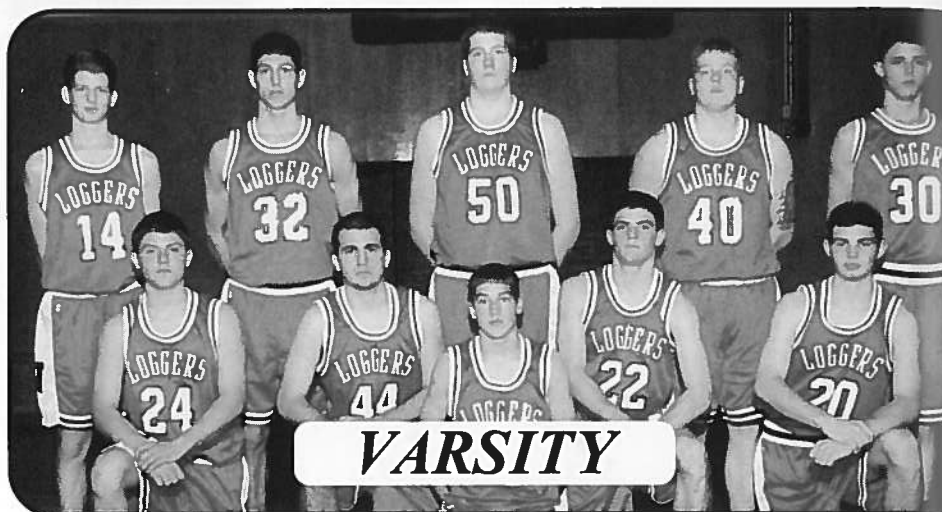

No, this year was very exciting to watch. Not just to see them win, but how they had to work harder as a team to overcome adversity.

All in all, as a fan, I would have to say this year was the most exciting and gut wrenching season to watch.

The dream almost came true for the WV Loggers this year. With the whole starting line-up returning from last year, the Loggers had the talent to go all the way. Every basketball game was intense, always coming down to the wire. This year the Loggers had to settle for 4th place in districts. Not the dream, but a very respectable season. Way to go Loggers!

If people say you jump, tumble, and yell like a girl...

From first and ten, to three in the key, these spirited girls can always get the crowd excited. The 1998 Wishkah Valley Cheerleaders are Captain Molly Murphy and squadmates, Kyna McFall, Nicole Eager, Jamie Gallington, Erica Witt, and Rachel Eaton.

Top Middle: The cheerleaders get the crowd pumped up with a stunt at an away football game.

Bottom Left: Even after a hard day's cheering, these girls can still find time to pose pretty.

Bottom Right: These crowd pleasin' girls stop to say cheese at a pep assembly.

Student Life

ON FILM

Who was the person most embarrassed in an assembly? What student cut their hand on the table saw in shop class? Which class was the easiest to fall asleep in? Exactly what started the fight that ended with an injured head and a damaged score board? Who went back most often for seconds at lunch? Who intercepted a pass to whom that caused a broken bone in football? Who got the most carnations on Valentine's Day? To help you with the answers we made sure to catch it all....ON FILM!!!!

The Young...

mmm... Milk does a body good!

That's right Devon, we caught you red handed!

I don't wanna say cheese!

John Glazak is too big for tonka trucks, but still too small to mud it with the big boys.

Spelling Spelling Spelling!!!!

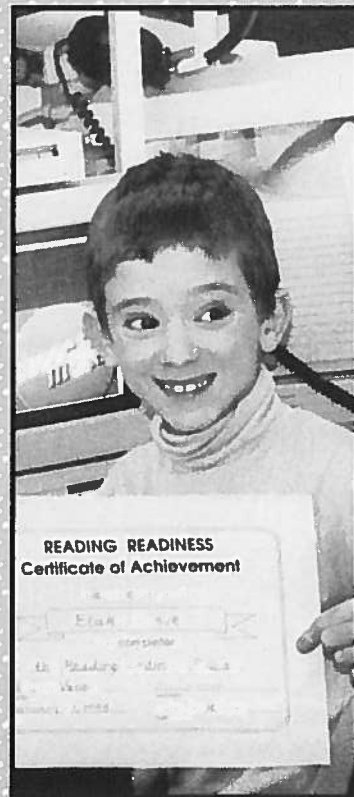

Set, hut, hut, hike. Alvin hak looks like too nice of a guy to play tackle football.

...and the Restless!

The fifth graders decide to catch a few rays of sunshine before their recess is over.

Blake Busse shows off the Certificate of Achievement he received. Way to go Blake!

Alyssa Arnold and Mikki Nelson show us what elementary hall life is all about.

Who ever said kindergarten wasn't hard work?

The first graders are supposed to be watching a movie in library, but seem to find the photographers much more interesting.

Leaving Wishkah

Good-bye Mr. Miller

Mr. Miller plays Santa for the annual Christmas concert.

Show off that great dinner tie Mr. Miller

R.D Woods shows his love of donkeys in the Seniors' Donkey Basket Ball Game.

In the year 1965, Mr. Jim Miller spent his first year of teaching at Wishkah Valley School. He returned to Wishkah 24 years later as Principal and after three years became Superintendent. Not only did Wishkah make an impact on Mr. Miller, he also made an impact on us. His kindness and willingness to be there for his students has helped many of us through tough times. We thank you Mr. Miller from the bottom of our hearts and we will miss you very much. → The staff and students of Wishkah Valley School

For thirty years you have given yourself completely to the education and care of thousands of young people. Your leadership and inspiration has touched us all. I admire all that you have done throughout the years and love you very much. → Carol

Good-bye Class of 1998

The doors of the world are opening up for the Senior Class of 1998. They have their entire lives ahead of them and can go where ever they please. Some will go off to college and expand their minds in what we call higher learning. Some will be content to find a counter part and marry. Some will stay right here in the Valley, and others will go out into the world beyond. Some feel fear at facing the challenges of life while some look ahead with eager eyes. No matter what these students do they will always be a part of the Wishkah Valley Community, and we will miss them when they move on.

You have been so many things to so many people. The extent of your influences will probably never be known. I am one of the most lucky, I not only call you teacher and coach, but most important father and friend. → Susan

"What is it like to have a dad who is the..." This was the question that followed me throughout my highschool years. People expected some kind of negative response, but I didn't have one. On the contrary, it was a great experience having my father as the principal. As a result, many perks became available to me, such as free Coke any time of the day by just uttering the simple phrase "Dad, would you buy me a Coke?" I've always been greatly influenced by my dad. I elementary school, at the height of dad's coaching career instead of playing the quarterback of the recess football team, I would assume the position of "coach" complete with stolen plays from dad's play book. He taught me to love sports and the value of learning. I know he will miss the life of education and education will certainly miss him. I was fortunate to be both student and son, so I can understand the feelings of the students who have found he has made a everlasting impression on their lives. → Jeff
